Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

Isaiah 11:1–9

“A shoot shall come out from the stump of Jesse, and a branch shall grow out of his roots. The spirit of the Lord shall rest on him, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and might, the spirit of knowledge and the fear of the Lord. His delight shall be in the fear of the Lord. He shall not judge by what his eyes see, or decide by what his ears hear; but with righteousness he shall judge the poor, and decide with equity for the meek of the earth; he shall strike the earth with the rod of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips he shall kill the wicked. Righteousness shall be the belt around his waist, and faithfulness the belt around his loins. The wolf shall live with the lamb, the leopard shall lie down with the kid, the calf and the lion and the fatling together, and a little child shall lead them. The cow and the bear shall graze, their young shall lie down together; and the lion shall eat straw like the ox. The nursing child shall play over the hole of the asp, and the weaned child shall put its hand on the adder’s den. They will not hurt or destroy on all my holy mountain; for the earth will be full of the knowledge of the Lord as the waters cover the sea. “

“Celebrate Christmas Better!” That was the note to my “future self” squarely set out on my calendar for December 1, 2017. I wrote the reminder sometime after Christmas last year. I remember feeling that Advent and Christmas had passed by without much reflection or deep engagement on my part. I vowed to change that this year. It was a clever tactic, but while the reminder gave me a head start, it also underscored my emptiness. Simply put, there were no follow-on instructions. In this sense, I had indebted my current self with the elusive task of finding a more spirit-filled meaning to the season. So here I am facing the same dilemma: how do I celebrate Christmas better?

How fitting that the scripture is restorative in nature and sets the stage for us with some tools and a vision for a world filled with the spirit. I’m particularly drawn to the verses that set forth a worldly coexistence filled “with the knowledge of the Lord.”

Given the often-polarized nature of today’s politics and the discord that can easily creep into all aspects of life, a vision of peace and harmony where all can thrive is one I’d rather embrace. Using the righteousness bestowed by the Lord coupled with our faithfulness (and a healthy delight in the fear of the Lord!) (read: and a healthy delight in holding the Lord in awe), we are provided guidance to live into the promise of a world filled with grace.

This is where I find a better way to celebrate Christmas. Just as Christ was born to fulfill God's promise to us, we are also born in Christ to live into this vision of peace and harmony. By acting out our faithfulness, we are restored and become one with the spirit. We become an active fulfiller of God's promise rather than passively waiting for something to happen to us. So I will celebrate Christmas this year by not only welcoming the Christ child into the world but by living into this promise daily.

Music Notes

The fall was an intensely busy time for me, but it left me feeling energized rather than exhausted. (OK, maybe a little exhausted.) So much happened that was positive and productive. As 2018 begins, there is much more to do, all of it equally positive.

Out of everything good and promising that happened, I want to express particular gratitude for the Organ Fund envelopes that were in your Christmas Eve bulletins. I'm so pleased and so happy that the organ matters to you. The importance of this place of worship, and of the integrity of all its parts including the organ, is rightly high on your list of priorities.

We don't worship a building, of course, but we make extensive use of it, and it stands as a physical witness to the Incarnation. Christmas is about God becoming a baby, taking flesh, living in a definite place and a definite point in history. A church building also witnesses in a definite place and time. I'm happy to be part of this community, and hope that 2018 brings us nothing but good things. I hope that includes a plan for our historic pipe organ.

Consider joining the choir and/or handbells this year! New members are always welcome, and we have a lot of fun.

Blessings on your new year!

Jonathan

Worship and Music Committee

On December 10, 2017 from 3:00 - 5:00 p.m. we hosted our first Christmas Carol Sing- along and hopefully this will grow into a tradition for our church during the Christmas season. Many thanks to the parishioners who donated their time and energy to set-up and clean-up and Merry Christmas to those who donated cookies. The committee cannot thank you all enough.

There were a little over fifty people attendance. Church members and people from the community at large made up the singers and listeners. Jonathan began with "Joy to the World" and then opened it up for people to call out the hymn numbers of their favorite carols that they wished to hear. Some of the chosen were the old favorites of everyone that are sung at this Christmas season, but there were a few new songs chosen as well. One in particular piqued our interest and quite possibly will become one of our future favorites. We sang and/or listened for about one hour and a half. We closed this part of the festivities with "We Wish You a Merry Christmas."

As we moved from the sanctuary to Fellowship Hall for coffee, tea, hot chocolate, juice and cookies it could be heard, "This was great fun and I hope it will happen again next year." This sentiment continued over refreshments.

Thanks again to all and Merry Christmas!

PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION

December's meeting fell on a foggy, dreary night and it was cancelled. Two people didn't get the message that it was cancelled, but that was ok. We had a lovely visit. So after church on December 10 we met. Discussion on the Christmas bags we send out was planned. It was decided that our next meeting will be the first Monday in February. Information will be in the Sunday bulletin or sent by email if anything urgent comes up. Thank you to all who contributed to the Christmas bags. I am sure they were greatly enjoyed.

Everyone at PW wish each of you a happy and a healthy New Year.

For the Year Ahead

And I said to the man who stood at the gate of the year:
    Give me a light that I may tread safely into the unknown!

And he replied:
Go out into the darkness
and put thine hand into the Hand of God!

That shall be to thee better than light and safer than a known way.
